

In This Issue:

- Tax Resources for USDA Program Participants
- Agriculture Risk Coverage and Price Loss Coverage Programs Receive 2018 Farm Bill One Year Extension, Farmers Can Now Enroll for the 2024 Crop Year
- USDA Makes Producer-Friendly Change to 2023 Notice of Loss Requirements for Two Livestock Disaster Assistance Programs
- Farmers.gov Local Dashboard Now Available for Producers in Alabama
- USDA to Provide More Than \$3 Billion to Commodity and Specialty Crop Producers Impacted by 2022 Natural Disasters

Message from the SED:

Happy New Year 2024! As we embark upon a brand new year in FSA, it brings me great joy to emphasize the impact that FSA has on the lives producers and ranchers across Alabama. Alabama FSA is continually disbursing LFP (Livestock Forage Program) payments to many cattle producers who have been directly impacted by the 2023 drought. At present, Alabama FSA has distributed over 18 million in these payments and continuing the work of tirelessly making these payments on a daily basis. Cold and frigid temperatures have been the norm here in the great state of Alabama recently and definitely looking for some brighter and sunny days ahead. I am quite certain we all are looking forward to that. With that however, brings about a certain trepidation as we enter tornado season in the deep south. All producers are encouraged to contact and consult with their local FSA office in the event of any natural disaster that affects crops, land, etc. FSA has a myriad of disaster assistance programs that can assist when these uncertain times prevail (ECP, EFRP, NAP) just to mention a few. Additionally, please be reminded that NAP signup has begun and the deadline to enroll in NAP is February 28, 2024.

SED Warren has ambitiously scheduled trips to local FSA offices across the state for this 2024 year and very much looking forward to hearing from you, your concerns, and address the issue of how FSA can impact the lives of farmers and ranchers across this great state. Recently, SED Warren visited the Hale and Greene County areas and listened to producers concerns regarding the ERP program.

FYI: Click here for Current FSA Loan Interest Rates

